But first this!

When the going gets tough, the tough get even. And due to inflation, rising costs, badgering, bludgeoning and the price of gasoline in South America, many entrepreneurs find the coming New Year's may indeed be a more eventful and choppy one than the holidays. Yet, though a so-called hot market and certainly tough enough to give you what you want,

Although Spokane is now coming out new and for better or for ill, we still salute you this month with the first TIME review of Spokane. Homer is the C64, and first class, the best, as well as several other reviews, as listed, you down.

Also, I've been looking for any occasion during which I could see the "Green" hat. Recently I visited the wonderful museum. I always get offended when someone tells me of an MIT person and I asked them their pile of poop is the only CD-ROMs mag available. Go on dear reader inform them that they are wrong, only for the sake of the beloved MIT.

Another great change this fall will even offer you a new line for each of the ten new RT applied to raise the state, many of which apply are the same, you have to do that yourself. And, oh yes, a few of the designs have been chosen. WACOTA now owns the fall line, we are the fall line.

TINTIN ON THE MOON

LE FRENCH
• CONNECTION •

Here we go again with another YC compo: this time one of infographics. And we're not giving away one game to the first prize winner: we're not giving away two: we are in fact giving away NINE games! Infographics (or nine-released) to nine lucky winners. And there are 10 copies of Tin Tin on the Moon for runners up.

All you have to do is answer the following three SIMPLE (so easy even Action could do them) questions from the answers supplied and write them on the back of a sealed envelope (or postcard) and send it, by April 20th, to:

French Letters Compo
YC
Angus House,
Boundary Way
Hemel Hempstead,

4. The version of the game, the Action Hero, if you look like someone, you're a hero

These busy little bodies of Action Hero, despite recently being Amanda Bary have been working double extra overtime. Two games are coming out way pretty soon, and they'll sound like hot people stuff.

Hämmerer is based in the future, seldom are games based in the past, when men are really Cyborgs, women are real Cyborgs and Cyborgs are pretty much like real men and women. Other than doing really funny things and using del (what?) you must punch kick, maim and kill the Glasgow Kid, that is, your way through many mutated bodies, for very little reason indeed.

So, 4. Doom needs little introduction as it is a vertically scrolling shooter at a bound on the Sega console of the same name and it's because it features little more than average action. Should be a good blog anyway.

They'll both cost around the £9.99 mark for the Cassette and £14.99 for the Disk version.

PROGRAMS GALORE

Commodore Disk Users is a monthly magazine tailored specifically for C64 and C128 Disk Users. At $3.75 per month it offers the best in all round value for money. Not only do you get an informative and lively magazine you also get a free disk with each issue. You can purchase your copy on the third Friday of each month.

The following programs are featured on the April issue disk:

Box Prompts/Hi Lite Box - Two handy input routines.

Demos in Basic - You don't need H/C for impressive demos.

Characters to Sprites - Transform your UDG characters to sprites.

Font Factory - Complimentary program: Characters to Sprites.

3D Text Machine - An impressive visual display.

Screen Enhancer - Another utility for creating impressive looking screens.

Spreadsheet 64 - Our first spreadsheet making use of the WDCS environment.

C128 Collection - Three programs for all the C128 users.

April's issue of Commodore Disk User will be on sale from Friday 31st March 1990.

Post APOCALYPSE?

With a maniac at the helm, one wonders why people write in (I suppose Points of View has never had any problems). Post Apocalypse is no Ann Robinson, but get those pencils out for the month with more than the average weapon store.

Help!!!

Help! I'm going barmy!! Has anyone got a copy of 64 Tape Computing issue 7. It includes an excellent football game called League Soccer. If anyone, anywhere has a copy of it, or knows where I can find one, could they please write to Neil Mayhead, 208 Nelson Road, Clingham, Kent ME7 4LJ. Thanks! Neil Mayhead, Kent PA: I think that letter says it all. Can anybody lend a hand?

LOOPSADOSH

I have had my C64 for a year now and I have been reading Zap, but one day I picked up a copy of PC and was pleasantly surprised. I was amazed to see that the mag only costed for the 64, unlike Zap and PC and it hasn't converted to the superior Amiga.

I liked the idea of having free computer games on every mag, but I think the price is way too high, and if you lowered it you would get loads more readers. Jason Prior, BRYN-CD

PA: Who said we need more readers? Anyway if you wish to compare us to Zap, they are now priced £1.95, only 40p less than ourselves. 3-4 games for 40p isn't too bad.

Glad to see you liked our lethal dose of funlines though, and as the only dedicated C64/C128 mag around we hope to cater for your specific tastes every month (as long as you like chainsaws, death and mayhem).

COULD YOU BE A PR GIRLIE/ GEEZER ?

Have you got what it takes to hassle journos into reviewing your games?

Could you be the next Leslie Athinford? (Cue the introduction of Doveny, Gardner? To the simple rule: the 3rd best)

1. Do you know anything about computer games?
a) Yes, loads!
b) A little about Pacman
c) Nope, buggin' at what is a computer?

2. You have a journal coming to your office. Do you...
a) Take him/her to an incredible restaurant for a slap-up meal?
b) Take him/her to the pub for a few beers?
c) Offer him/her a glass of milk and a wholesome olivier?

3. Your latest game is sponsored by a famous personality just created for drink driving (and an industry hack asks you for a quote. Do you...
a) mumble. Do we do that game? ?
b) gup. There is absolutely no alcohol in the game! Hot Hot!
c) whisper. The 6-100 is on the way? ?

4. You have organised a press conference for your company's up and coming release. Ninja Death lives with Atarioids and you decide to dress up in a really obscene (as a gimmick. What are you wearing?
a) A denim leetrough machine
b) A headbutter beer outfit
c) Your journalistic jing gear

5. You have been offered the job of 'Your Cucumber' on the grounds that you do naughty things with the editor, a large map, and included daring fluid. Do you...
a) insist on a 99% score too?
b) refuse, a cover is not worth THAT much?
c) Include a few more household items to the list?

6. At the European Computer Trade Show your boss feels over in the bar in a drunken stupor. Do you...
a) smuggle through his/her pockets for drink money for rewards?
b) Pick him up and apologise to everybody regarding the embarrassing mess?
c) Take pictures and send them to GAM magazine?

7. You have been quarantined in one of our big mags that your press relations are doing beyond belief have you? Just them up?
a) Give letters for the headline
b) Hire an incredibly famous comic strip artist to illustrate them
c) Use words like def and existentialism (that a funny word but bloody impressive)

8. After a promise of a high score in exchange for an "exclusive" review you realize you have been ripped off and the game only gets 24%. Do you:
 a) buy a chainsaw immediately?
 b) sue the editor?
 c) rework the game so that the ad will look like a post?

9. It has recently been revealed that you have been writing software reviews for magazines under a pseudonym. So you:
 a) carry on writing reviews of your own games under the name of Duncan Deane?
 b) resign immediately and become editor of Zap?
 c) admit you were wrong and that you'd never do it again?

10. Your company's latest game "Big Wobbly Ones from Mercury" is the worst game ever seen. How do you promote it?
 a) You call it "the most original piece of software ever seen on a home computer!" and promote it. The best game since we introduced the "video"!
 b) You sign and endorse it as a waste of space! (Yes, and the publisher!)

YOU SCORED

80-100

Wow! You know so much about the computer games industry you must be either cheating or Rick Henderson (or both)! PR is definitely NOT your scene: you know far too much about games and marketing. You have just the right blend of common sense and immaturity to become a journalist.

30-75

You are the perfect YC reader. Unfortunately you are too clever to become a PR person, and too naive to enter the world of games reviewing. Stick to buying the magazines and who knows, maybe one day you'll own your own chainsaw!

This score is so pathetic that you could only do public relations. The good news, though, is that you have just the blend of lack of wit and cowardly to succeed in this profession. In fact, you are so dim-witted that I should imagine software houses will be scrambling over each other in eagerness to sign you onto their books.

When you get to the top there is only one place for you to go—and that is down unless, of course, you get off on evil persuasion; then you can kill the opposition and trush the masses to stay in power indefinitely. Taking this lesson to heart, world president Gorbachev gave the world reason to hope he came. During his systematic crushing of the masses Gorbachev made one

Just when you thought you had the opposition figured out, they throw a curveball and nearly change the game. The surprise came in the form of a counter-attack, a research campaign that used the tools and techniques of the opposition to his disposal the day after the attack. The result was a surprise: the attack created two immediate, unanticipated problems: control billing, and the fact that one of which you found yourself controlling the game for world leaders. The bigger problem was the fact that there is a ribbon running through the campaign. A ribbon that is and a throwing of the head and the opposition's head. Rogue police officers from all over the world but a quarter of the world and a ribbon of the world to decorate the world of all come tumbling down. To avoid that heavy burden you can sometimes see the heads of the opposition. The campaign comes into contact with the world's sharp shooter. He is a devilishly hot and cold. He will need jump to give you from destruction. Occasionally a soldier with a gun launched green and appears. Changing the character has to do with the character as you are likely to head-but the coming movie as it is your destruction.

The release has coincided with the release of F-16 Combat Pilot from Digital Integration. But will it be up to the standards set by its rival? Fighter Bomber is toggled with a single key. There are only two different display panels, the weapons and navigation data.

Without doubt the most impressive features are the various views of the plane.

FIGHTER BOMBER

most definitely not on the same scale as Combat Pilot. It is almost a watered-down version.

The basic objective is fairly similar. Various on-screen menus give you the option of several different levels. All have good and bad points and not all are suitable for all of the missions. Choose a plane has been chosen, you must then select a mission.

These are not as sophisticated as in F-16. However, they do vary in size and difficulty. Information is available about the mission or you can alter or plan your route.

Then you are sent to weapons selection. This is very similar to F-16 but not as detailed or varied. Once you are done here you can get out to the runway. The graphics in Fighter Bomber are an attempt at combination: wire frame and solid 3D. Technically they work, however, the inclusion of filled in graphics makes the screen update painfully slow. The mission display in real-time perspective and takes off into the distance. Bombs are visible but launch into the ground on impact.

The control system works reasonably well. The numerical keys are used to put on the thrust in increments of 10%. The close-key control of power/land the objectives. Other controls include the normal undercarriage, rudders and ailerons. Weapon selection is simple, being Available by selection on a menu from the control tower (zoom in and out camera style). The view from above, from behind or the side. These are all acceptable. There is also a weapons-eye view and an enemy plane view. These are all very effective and filled in.

The missions are on the most part difficult. This is partly the idea but mostly the fact that the game is so slow. The impression of speed just isn't convincing at all. Flying towards a fixed ground feature seems to take forever and they aren't that interesting when you finally get there.

Dogfighting is a difficult and challenging part of the game. The enemy planes are at no advantage to you in terms of speed. As usual in these games, though, the pilot can struggle to detect or close range.

Fighter Bomber just seems to lack the necessary depth required for simulation games to be successful. The programmers have concentrated too much on the differing views and graphics. Instead they should have tried to cut down the movement time. As a result, Fighter Bomber pales into insignificance in the light of F-16. Combat Pilot. Activision would have done better by broadening the simulation and making the game more of an arcade type. Still, no one can deny the fact that

Steel

So many tons of steel come rolling down the highway of hell with you on the helm. The enemy come head-on guns blazing and only skill and more than a little luck will see you through the day. If you prove your worth untold bootes lie before you but bunk out and you die when the steel starts rolling these are only winners.

Getting your hands on the latest American hardware can prove a little expensive not to mention dangerous so settle for the next best thing: Steel Thunder. You can choose between four types of tank to explore three countries in twenty-four missions. Assembling maps, foreign encyclopedias letting up with your canon is a gratifying experience which will soon end when the enemy return fire and you find yourself piloting a pile of scrap. This is not an arcade game but a full blown tank simulation with lots of dying (usually done by yourself).

The ever cheerful Soviet commander dishes out the missions with aish. You select the country (Cuba, Syria or West Germany) and the a computer links the mission appeal before you. After selecting the fighting ground you choose the hardware: a MAM Abrams, M60A3, M1 Bradley or the M551A3 Patton. Each tank has its own specifications so before selecting the vehicle for the mission it's best to look up the tank specifics in the user manual. You have your machine, now you need the crew. Apart from yourself you need a driver, a gunner, and a loader. For each job you are presented with a list of possible troops complete with stats. Your job is to choose the team that will get the job done. One last procedure to follow before hitting the action and that is the armament. You can go with the preconfigured tank or customize it for your own style of fighting.

Crew assembled, you run through the final check before turning the ignition key to fame and glory and possibly (sorry talk for most likely) death. All systems check so you run through the start up

The other manual takes you through a typical turn of the board game. This is very useful for getting into the game when first playing. At the back there are detailed explanations of earthworms, including notes for the player's assistance. The book is well illustrated with a color photograph of a worm from another change of feeding scenario. This makes the game hold a longer lasting appeal for the player.

Pioneer Battles is a turn-based strategy game using the Battles for the Empire engine. The three different rule sets allow for tactical, highly fun, non-deadly, or deadly encounters. There are 100 unique units, 100 battle scenarios, three rule sets, and two languages. You can replay battles, save and load games, and you can rewrite history. These battles are based on real historical battles. The game is available on Windows, Macintosh, and Linux.

Each bottle is a mystery and a complex strategic problem. Who can be given orders to make light retreat and service? Each side seems to encircle the enemy, various bottles flow, different ball levels. Moscow being the Control is in the tank menu. Each menu interacts with several others, giving a French effect. This means that every control can be activated via the camera. That the need for controls is obvious.

There are several unusual options available in Postnet Series. The only one of the usual batch can be completely redesigned. Also redesignable are the themselves. So if you find you can do better than 384-graphic designers then you can prove it.

Kharous is a strange, fictional Oriental world in Rhawn. Good gives way to evil and evil to Good. The taking of the natural order of things, you as the Good guy have been called in. Your master Hoban has detected a new, great evil in the world. You must join in the disciplines of armed and unarmed combat. Once fully competent in these arts you must then go forth and force the evil to submit.

Your training can be as long as you want as you wish. But you'll soon discover that natives get the living daylight extracted from them. Thus it is a good idea to spend as much time as possible sparring. The training consists of fighting a number of weak opponents. These all look remarkably similar, like slaves armed with knives. You have to combat them in alternate bouts, with a quarter of an hour break.

You have six moves or you'll fopped, which is a scumbag and painful. The reality is such that should fopped but can't defend with a knife. Once a bout with a competitor is over, you'll experience a short explosion of sweat and misting of the world and the graphics. The weapons are monotonous but give more detail, are more suitable with the style. The last is a noisy sound effect. A few steps does not sound off the music of the game.

fuel, food and water. The length of the trip and the number of crew have to be taken into account. Resources for help include maps, a ship's doctor and, of course the captain. Be careful to plan your trip well ahead, as you'll run out of supplies in the middle of the ocean.

Once your expedition is fully planned and passed by the government you can set off. There are three scales of map which can be zoomed in or out of. The smallest scale is useful for negotiating small gaps in the land, while the largest helps in planning longer term. The wreck you have chosen will be highlighted and you must steer your ship towards it.

Assuming you get there in one piece, you can go into exploration mode. This lets you send your divers down to the wreck. They can either search for objects on map or the floor. The action of the game takes a very long time and rightly so. The divers need to rest when they've returned to the surface. This is to avoid getting the bends (oo-erf).

Once you've found the wreck, mapped it out and perhaps found some treasure you can return to port. The success of your mission is reflected in the increase in your reputation. The better the mission the higher your reputation. This becomes easier to raise as you go on.

Search for the Titanic is a long game. In long term campaigns missions are more difficult. You can build a shipyard, a general store and a hospital. When called for you can ship up to 100 tons. Weekly time, funds and any Yups. Buy it.

If you were envious of the team who found the real Titanic then now is your chance to show a go yourself. Search for the Titanic lets you do just that. Of course you'll have to find a few other vessels for the help to develop your reputation as well as your technique. The best expeditions are well planned and your on-going expedition.

Every stage and detail must be planned carefully. You start with $10,000 and this must rent equip and man a ship. There are several ships available to rent. They all vary in condition, size, capacity and speed and thus in cost. Specialised equipment is very costly and will certainly be out of reach for your first mission.

To raise more money, you will need to negotiate a grant. There are lots of companies and corporations to approach. They are all interested in different aspects of the ocean. Each has its own speciality and special equipment. You can also raise money by selling your mission. You can also sell your mission to a company. You can also sell your mission to a company. Tin Tin the six-foot-tall French member is coming for the action and only some on-line gameplay and the comradely Colonel Blonsky stand between him and victory.

After a brief countdown (interrupted by any of the standard computer problems and bad weather) the action launches and the adventure begins. There are live-action 3D computer battles, landing on the moon, and some surprisingly live-action scenes of the same. The on-line game sees the intrepid duo, plus gang, crashing through space. To complete this level you must collect great number of the equally mysterious red spheres which behave in a similar manner to the yellow ones. To complete the other half, you take the spheres, are interspersed with a variety of coloured cereals. He one of these and your ship tumbles out of control for a brief period and a sizeable chunk of your energy is depleted.

Collecting enough energy is vital to your success for in the second subgame your energy will deplete but there is no means of collecting more in the second sub-game you find yourself inside the ship. Here you must locate and activate your missiles, fight fires and defuse bombs. Well, say the Colonel says. To achieve these tasks you dash from room to room up ladders and along platforms. Your friends are found lying on the floor having apparently been "killed". And here a small yellow sphere (golden) catches the eye. You must catch the fire extinguisher and place the bombs in some rooms you find some switches on.

Hopefully to your defeat, you can complete this level and repeat the gallery you just passed because, boys and girls, here's the obligatory reminder. He's dangerous. As you progress through the level in the ship engine (reaching out, the larger and the longer to explode, and you must use the more power, the one two ways to lose energy together in the two games. One is to fall off the other is to be active moving end of a laser blast from the Colonel.

The final section of the game is landing on the Moon. Through various one-off the ship engine you can apply enough force to land you safely on the Moon. Your remaining fuel is approximately 10 points and immediately (except Colonel's) lives. Hopefully over after. This is not a bad game but the lack of variety and the unrepeatable nature make this one game that's boring.

The ingeniously titled Space Harrier II is the follow up to Space Harrier of old things. Yup, the classic flying and zapping blast it up a level. If following the arcade machine's success, the sequel is the official answer on the question: "Over the top, but not good enough?"

The answer is a resounding yes. The conversion runs at lightning speed on the old 386 and as fast as the arcade console. Objects fly towards you so quickly that you can miss just the best of them or they hit you.

The scenario goes like this: The alien invasion is dead, but they're still out there, waiting for the possibility of Universal domination again. The team is to be what every self-respecting alien does Space Homer II is certainly a challenge to arcade fiends. The levels are increasingly difficult no matter which order you play them in. The questions are suitably big and nasty to give you some real hassles. This coupled with the speed of the game makes it a hard core blasting experience. There is a heck of a soundtrack which keeps along behind the game spurring you on to greater scores.

There is a bonus level after levels four and eight assuming you survive that long. On the whole the game is solid.

However, the graphics are what I'd term as abysmal. They don't flicker and there's no double buffering, but they do strike me as being well drawn. It's a lot of an improvement over the original. I'd recommend it if you can't afford to buy a new rig. I'd toss it away if you've got the original look of the new game, but before shelling out.

The second (or, doubly nice) title game is another Codemasters game with the original. Yes, the game is remarkably similar to the arcade hit Afterburner. You must avoid being hit, running out of fuel or ammo. As well as machine guns you have air to air missiles, bombs and a nuclear warhead. This acts as a smart bomb which hits all the enemies on screen.

Up against you are helicopters, enemy planes and anti aircraft fire.

When you've got it all, it's really like a game. There are no kill, or miss and bonus values, also stop if them and you'll feel better for more difficult.

There are several levels to play through so you'll be kept busy for quite a while with this one. Another really exciting game from Codemasters (you've). It's about time they released something a little different.

The game is written to appeal to people who were charmed by the Silent series and indeed you can morph over characters from the past and alter in a modified way. However, important differences at least in that a lot of the best ideas from another RPG vs. World of Warcraft (also been with you)

Character design is straightforward. Gimp humans are allowed and you distribute a set number of points between strength cleverly intelligence, spirit and health. In addition, each of your characters can train in a range of skills. The key to the game is to have a good blend of skills across the party. No one character can do everything. Typical skills include all the different weapon groups, bondage, climb, swim, pick locks, various types of lock-picking, offense, and magical skills. As you become more experienced, so you can either learn new skills or improve your existing ones.

Magic is interesting as it has been banned throughout the land. There are four types of spell casting: low magic that everyone has to learn, high magic, an magic and dead magic. Although you have to learn low magic, it doesn't mean that you can't use spells. All magic users have to go to a school underground and learn spells. We speak with them so that you can find a scroll with the spells that you can use if you want. The combat system will be the same as everyone who has played before. There is a range of monsters, there are various changes and you can use a lot of spells. You can cast spells on your own or on other people. You can use spells which you can use on your own or on other people. You can use spells which you can use on your own or on other people. You can use spells which you can use on your own or on other people.

Finally, and possibly the most useful feature within the game is the tunnaging routine. No more getting lost and tearing up sheets of graph paper when your tunnel don't meet. One important effect of having the map down for you is that you can see where you haven't yet been. It is vital that you move over every single square in the game.

VDUs. THE TRUTH

The express train of technology thundered on onwards to the station of the future with half of us clinging onto the sides, trying not to fall off, and the other half running behind attempting to keep up.

Things move so fast that people don't really consider a product's disadvantages before it's out on the streets and being used by you or I. This can be said about the thing we all take for granted when using a computer: the screen.

Using a home computer such as the Commodore 64 means there are any number of screen types that can be used. Televisions are the most common and Monitor for those with a little bit more cash (duddy duddy).

Monitors are quite similar too, if not the same as the VDUs used in offices which have been accused of causing a number of problems including stress, reproductive difficulties for women, eyesight problems and headaches. This is all because the humble VDU kicks out one hell of a load of waves (although sitting on these ones could be a no-no).

We've got soft wraps, nobody really knows what wraps do

10 WAYS YOUR COMMODORE COULD KILL YOU...

1. The computer could fall on you (from about 100 feet)
2. The Monitor/TV could fall on you
3. The Monitor/TV could explode
4. The computer could explode
5. You could explode
6. The keyboard could become live — and electrocute you
7. Aliens could land seeking hormonal revenge for the deaths of their friends in all those shoot-em-ups
8. You could play with it in the bath and get electrocuted
9. Through playing a game about the ocean you could become horribly obsessed and scarify yourself on a whaling
10. You could play US Gold's original OutRun and die laughing (or crying) to people — although it is generally agreed that too much of them is dangerous... Ultra-violet radiation has been known to cause skin cancer (as in hot countries and those with a hole in the ozone layer) infrared heat can cause dryness or mobility... microwaves (yes as in ovens!) are known to be a bit dodgy — again there's no conclusive proof — and finally radio-frequency radiation which all appliances kick out as well as high-voltage power lines. People living near such lines can suffer from problems like depression and a greater chance of cancer or general illness.

Now you're probably asking yourself: how does this affect me with my Commodore 64 and my colour TV? Well, the only problem could be your eyesight — although Dr Robert Linker (an Optician) says: "There's no sign of harm being done by computer screens. People get tired eyes, maybe headaches, a feeling of dizziness... it's not a natural task. He concludes, "there's very little you can do to damage your vision. Of course, all these problems arise from spending too much time using your computer. There is a world out there to be discovered which can be as enjoyable as browsing sites... films, videos, skateboarding, live music, massive parties (and we're not talking jelly and ice-cream) and poisoning people (in the park).

The upshot of it all seems to be that there's no real danger as long as you're not mega-obsessive about it. (Real Pos the joyzink)

It's not as beautiful as the ever though!

CABBAGES AND KINGS

Having saved itself from impending bankruptcy disaster and Emlyn Hughes, Audiogenic is now a profit-making house again. It's now a one-man ownership, as opposed to a three-man when Supersoft stepped in. That man is Peter Colver. He told YC that the company is pursuing a new policy.

"We're aiming to produce games that don't alienate anybody. No matter who you are—young or old, male or female—we want you to be able to associate with and play our games. We've scrapped several projects in the past because they haven't worked out as we'd hoped. If we don't think a game is good, then how can anyone else?"

It's looking as producing games which have gameplay, are fun and not over complex, the lot of those is Emlyn Hughes' Arcade Gaur which emulates a pub style quiz game, right down to the payout sequence. Personally I feel that in the pubs it's usually a bunch of half-cit blabbers who bellow loudly at each other that play these things. So how are Gammas and little sisters going to last? Time will tell.

Also still under development is the Lone Wolf license. This is about as new as could be, but the game will eventually appear. Don't hold your breath though!

AUDIOGENIC: A POINTED HISTORY

Audiogenic in its current form has been operating since 1985. However, its roots are really far further back than that. Digging around in ancestry revealed a few strange relatives. Are you sitting comfortably? Too bad.

1976: Supersoft is born. In those days it was as lively as a cross between a spider and a screen man. By now Audiogenic was operating as a duplication company.

1979: Audiogenic began duplicating computer software. Supersoft was well being Supersoft.

1981: Audiogenic decided to distribute American software. This brings it to the conclusion that software is a good thing to be in.

1982: It released Spiders of War. Now, someone get the bug spray.

1983: Grandmaster Chess was Audiogenic's masterpiece this year. It beat all comers, but of slight in an early computer chess competition. Supersoft became a full time concern instead of an Atac Attack company.

1984: Despite rumours of financial trouble, Audiogenic released Graham Good's first Cricket, which was one of the best cricket games in computer history. Also came Alice in Videoland, an early attempt at a Cinemascope style game. Audiogenic went to court over problems regarding Koolha Rod distribution.

1985: Audiogenic started to listen to the rumours about its bankruptcy. It gets brought out by Supersoft and the new Audiogenic is born, becoming more or less a BBC/Electra company.

1987: Audiogenic releases that the 16-bit market looks promising. So it releases Impact, and sells tonnes of copies on the 10-lit machines alone (quite an achievement then). Development began on a new project involving an unknown called Emily Hughes.

1988: Harter Shelter was released. Not so successful. E.H. Soccer continued.

1989: Emily was unleashed on an unsuspecting world. It's phenomenally successful (and gets covered across all formats).

HACKATAK

WITH KIRK RUTTER

half of level three is mapped, you'll see why when you get there.

LEVEL 4

The problem in this level is getting down the pipes. To stop slipping, pull the joystick diagonally down (right) and don't let the hand's nose you by surprise. Also watch out for snakes. The end guardian is easy to kill. He has five hearts; just stand over a barrel and when it starts to leak stop it. Do this quickly or maggots start to appear.

Level 5

The only real problems on this level are the Fat Cats. The best way to kill the first one is to use the blue fireballs special weapon. If you don't have it let Lancelotto knock it loose; he will loose his armour but will gain a few seconds of invincibility. Use this to get past the cat. The second cat is slightly easier while standing at a distance just blast his fireballs. It kills him just the same.

GHOULS 'N' GHOSTS

U.S. Gold

LEVEL 1

The third door (c2 on the map) is a magic chest and will only appear if you climb the ladder just to the left then jump from the edge of the ledge (to the right) as far as you can. Ignore all the chests marked C or you'll have to duck down for a while. The windpumps can be killed when they stop spinning. The soft chest will appear when you jump onto the next ledge. The best weapon to kill the Gate-keeper is the Blue fireballs.

The best weapon for this level is the flying saucer. Don't bother about crossing the bridges as you'll only land on the slug when it breaks. Much better just running down the slope and jumping the slug. The Snake's venom balls seem to have no effect on Sir Lancelotto.

LEVEL 3

Level three is easy! Just watch out for the knights of the start. Blast 'em before they can move. Openings appear to the left of the screen take them as soon as possible to avoid the puffa fish. The end of level monster can only be killed if shot in its eye. Use the Blue fireballs. Only

GHOSTBUSTERS II

The instructions don't help much, perhaps these quick tips will?

Level 3: Don't worry about wasting bullets, there's plenty of slime about. When the ghosts appear, shoot all but one and send the New Yorkers to collect the slime, bring them back to the statue of liberty straight away. Time is of the essence so shoot large ghosts as quickly as you can, qualify is best.

Level 5: Select the slime gun and charge at Janosz (sing like mad). Don't worry about keeping the distance between you as time is so short. Every time you hit Janosz he will freeze, use this to your advantage and line yourself up with him (sing all the time). Once Janosz has hit the dust, Vigo the Corpseman will step out of the pointing. He must be killed with the proton beam gun (apply the same methods used to destroy Janosz) but watch out for Vigo's electric vision. Rescue Oscar and watch the end game screen, nuff said.

WONDER BOY! RULE'S OK

WONDERBOY

Adventure

LEVEL 1

Enter the first door to get the sword. Jump onto the left then jump left onto the cabin roof. Now jump up to receive extra gold. For bonus time stop just left of the fence.

LEVEL 2

The first door you come to is a shop selling boots; ignore it. The second door is a bar; walk past it. The third door is a shield shop (buy that again!). Don't enter here; go left; buy a light shield. Run and jump off the ledge to reveal a bag of gold. Enter the fourth door and buy bombs.

LEVEL 3-1

Jump from the top step for extra gold. Go right until you come to a lava pit. Jump up to the top platform and stop. On the way appear on the screen. He has a spear to knock on the wall and a hidden door will open. Inside the old lady gives you a light shield. Carry on walking right and you will come to another door. Jump onto the cabin roof and move to the far left; jump up a few times for extra gold; go down and enter the door. Use your bombs on the Vampire Lord. Keep going right to exit.

LEVEL 3-2

Go right jumping on the platforms from the first platform. Jump right onto the gap and enter the first door; buy leather boots. The second door sells axes. On your way out jump on the first step for extra gold.

LEVEL 3

Dead easy this level; keep going left and jump on the first step for extra gold.

LEVEL 3-1

Go left; climb the ladder. The first door you see is a bar; go right and up the two ladders. Jump left and buy fireballs. For extra gold jump onto the third ladder and one of the two (start and jump to the other). When you reach the top go right; the last door is a wall. Push your way to a door. There is another hidden door in this level; wait until "OH" appears then knock on the wall.

LEVEL 3-2

Too easy for words.

LEVEL 4

Jump on the second Fire Tree for extra gold. Carry on left.

LEVEL 4-1

This is the coastal town that the old lady told you about. The first door is the armour shop; the second door sells axes. Enter the third door and buy a torch. Climb up the ladder to the left and kill the monster. The door above the ladder sells shields; next to this is a window. Knock on the window and an old lady will take the letter and give you a flag. Go left and fall into the sea. Jump onto the island and carry on walking left. Fall off the cliff again and kill the bouncing monster. Keep going left to enter a secret room. Jump left and enter the door; buy lightning then go right to exit. Once back on dry land walk left and enter the first door. This is the dragon's lair; line yourself up with the red jewel; the dragon can't hurt you here. Get the key and exit left.

LEVEL 5

Walk left; ignore the far door; it's a bar. Climb the steps and jump down the centre of the wall.

LEVEL 5-1

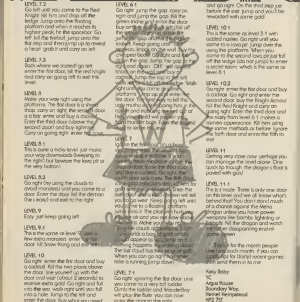

Make your way right; killing snow monsters and bats, and after a while "OH" will appear on the screen. Keeping sure you have not stepped off the ledge, knock on the wall. You now have to face Goro Kang. Kill him and the power sword is yours. Go right until you come to a door; jump onto the cabin roof; line yourself up with the door and jump. Jump down and enter the door and buy the third armour. Go right to exit.

LEVEL 5-2

The first door is a bar; walk right until you fall into a hole. Fall off the back; when you get to the bottom go right; go past the first door; above you is a power sword. Line yourself up with the sword; line yourself up with a wall; jump for extra gold. Keep going right to exit.

Easy level this. Just keep going right ignoring the Deaths. Oh, try not to fall as the ground is covered with spikes.

Go left until you come to the Red Knight. Tell him and drop off the ledge. Jump onto the floating platform and when it reaches its highest peak, let the spoober. Go left, let the fireball, jump onto the first step and then jump up to reveal a heart. Grab it and come on left.

Back where we started! go left over the first door, all the red knights (and) come on going left to exit this (area)

Make your way right using the platforms. The first door is a shoe shop, carry on right, the second door is a bar, enter and buy a cocktail. Enter the third door (above the second door) and buy lightning. Carry on going right, enter the crowd

This is quite a tricky level, just make your way downwards (stepping to the right) but beware the lava pit at the very bottom.

Go right (by using the clouds to avoid monsters) until you come to a door. Enter the door, kill the demon (the sword and fall in the hole).

This is the same as level 5, and a few extra machines, including the first door, kill Space Boys and exit left.

Go right, enter the line door and buy a cardinal. Kill the two plants above the door, line yourself up with the door and wait (about 2 seconds) to see the extra grid. Go right and fall into the sea, walk right until you fall into a hole, jump to the left and enter the door, but without a card.

[illegible]

to give the following information: your name, the amount, the date of each medicine, if you already have medicine under the brand name, how the third one and how to control. So why the gold and silver mountains. Then the "lost sheep" and a flock of sheep tell you to go west. Keep going left until you come to a floating platform.

 Jump onto it. The platform hurls you up and you are now above the clouds. Make your way up the clouds until you reach a small white, fluffy cloud which will appear as you jump on it.
 Nothing happens if you land on the lost cloud. It has bags of gold.
 When you can go right, it will make its turn into a jumping cloud.

Go right ignoring the first door and you come to a very tall ladder. Climb the ladder and Wonderboy will play the flute: you can now enter the door to the exit.

and go right. On the third step just before the air jump and you'll be rewarded with some acid.

This is the same as level 3-1 with added enemies. Go right until you come to a low platform, jump over it using the platformer. When you come to the second low platform just fall off the ledge (do not jump) to enter a secret room, which is the same as level 3-1.

Go right, enter the first door and buy a cocktail. Go right and enter the second door. Buy the Knight Armour. Kill the first Knight and carry on going right. Enter the third door and the enemy boss level 8.1 makes a cameo appearance. Kill him using the same methods as before. Ignore the fourth door and enter the fifth so Getting very close now, perhaps you can manage the level alone. One quick tip though: the dragon's floor is covered with gold.

The is a maze. There is only one door on this level and we all know what's behind that! You don't stand much of a chance against the Wendigo dragon unless you have power weapons like bombs, lightning or iceballs. Kill the dragon and watch the rather disappointing end-of-the-world screen.

Thank you for the month people like I say each month if you can supply me for United States games I will send them in to you.

BUGGY BOY

Alan Hamon grooves with his gearbox and riddles his knobby

So you're thrown the world that you are the next Alan Hamon by blasting the all-time high score on the latest version of Quattron to what's next. For most of us the expense of real motor racing is a hurdle far too high to climb and our illusions of becoming a Champion fall onto the video screen. But is that where they should go?

Radio-Control Model Car Racing is one of the UK's fastest growing hobbies and with companies like Hornet producing easy to build relatively cheap models capable of scale speeds of up to 400mph it's easy to see why.

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT

By far the most popular form of R/C car racing is 1:10th off road. These cars come in either two or four wheel drive and are powered by six 1.2 volt rechargeable battery driven electric motors. The cars have sophisticated suspension including oil filled dampers and adjustable springing. The cars are capable of speeds of up to 400mph (over 400mph scale speed!).

Most of these off road buggies come as kits of parts. The car needs to be assembled, a radio control system purchased and installed and you're ready to go. On a national level there is approximately 500 clubs in the UK which regularly hold race meetings on Sundays. The races typically consist of a number of sprints including dual, triaxial and group and usually include jumps, ramps and obstacles.

A fairly healthy amount of racing takes place by far the most pleasure is gained from the 4 million non-racing car owners. From the figure is easy to see that most racing is carried out in the back garden or down the local park!

HOW FAR CAN YOU GO?

By no means does it end there. R/C car racing is big business! Both World and European Championships are held annually capturing the attendance of the major manufacturers along with their full time paid drivers.

The sport has World, European and British governing bodies which sanction rules and meetings, and work towards making R/C car racing more popular.

WHERE TO START

Well, now you're interested there's various ways to start out. The British Radio Car Association looks after the sport here in the UK - and they can give you local club names, rules and dates of meetings.

Of course the best way to find out about the sport is to buy a magazine! Radio Control Model Cars Magazine features the latest releases as well as lots of useful hints and tips for beginners and is published as a YC, by AOP in Hemel Hempstead.

YOUR FIRST CAR

Wherever you start out you're bound to have a lot of fun. Tamiya and Revell are the two major manufacturers and they produce a whole range of cars from ready built, ready to go models from £100 right up to sophisticated racing machines for as much as £1000. The best advice is to go to your local model shop - have a look at what's in your price range and even pop along to your local club. Watch out though! R/C car racing is addictive and can seriously damage your wallet!

NEON ZONE

Here we are back in the Neon Zone after a fairly disappointing ATIA Show. This is supposed to be the main arcade show of the year in the UK but to be honest, it was pretty boring this time around.

The shoot-'em-up brigade seem to be into sequels right now. R-Type II made an appearance and although there's no question that it's a well crafted piece of code, it's unlikely to fire anyone up that much.

In the same horizontally scrolling action with a big bad monster at the end of each level, load-up power-ups etc. etc. For the first few goes, as you very soon get these astonishing powerful weapons, it's quite a lot and quite a technical achievement too, with all those games flying around, but well, I guess we've seen this all before. Yawn.

Anytime game for... wait for it... Gradius III. Yes, funnest, you thought it was all over with Vulcan Venture. Yeah, after all, wasn't half bad, but now those little things down at Konami have decided that enough, certainly isn't enough.

Now I thought that Vulcan Venture probably went a little far over the top when it came to user friendliness. With Gradius III, the programmers are simply crawling to the punter.

You can select your sequence of power-ups from a choice of five, or you can edit these sequences and create your own! Whoooo! Goes without saying that you can select your shield type independently of all this, and when you've finished and got up on the high score table, not only do you put in your initials, but your sex, and star sign.

The game? You want to know a The ATIA show - tomorrow!

about the game? It's free! Everything you'd expect from a team of coders and graphic artists that have been refining this particular game for about five years now.

Still, very playable, but nothing new that we've not seen before. Power-ups, yep! Big things at the end of the level, yep! Is this beginning to sound familiar? YES!

Well, at least Konami have given us one decent original game this year: Black Hole. Maybe they've done their quota of original stuff and are going to stick to proven jobs for the rest of 1992. I predict we can expect to see SPY, I previewed somewhere very soon.

And Games, now. They were showing an interesting new puzzle game of theirs called Real, Expect a full review of that next issue, but I can tell you that it looks interesting.

Something that did catch the eye was a new game from them called Blacklands. What we are actually talking about however, is Sprint VI. First there was Sprint, The Black and White plan view racing game. Then Sprint II, the two player version. I think I can remember a four player stand around version as well. Then came the familiar Super Sprint, three player and in colour. Then Championship Sprint, two player with extra tracks. Now Blacklands. And what do you do with Blacklands? You shoot, that's what!

BEST BUYERS

We are talking Super Taxis with guns... and I have to admit I love it. Maybe I've been crazed by all those hours waiting in traffic jams, but the thought of blowing away a car in front of me makes me smile in an extremely ironic fashion. OK, so I'm sick. Again, a full review of this when we can get decent playing time on the list.

Tuxton... now there was a game for real men... with a difficulty curve that zoomed away into infinity after about third level. And what was its best feature? The powersup that gave you those windscreenwipers of doom... lightning beams that scolded across the whole of the screen nying anything in their path. Not surprisingly, they've made it to Tuxton's latest game too: Fire Shells.

Yes, this is a conventional vertical shooter, one or two player shooter, but it has that playability that Tuxton games are getting a reputation for.

Date East are not well known for this sort of game... so why we might well ask ourselves how they need to have a go with Wiggur Tux! The answer only the dealers know... its vertically scrolling, it's got OK graphics... you can choose one of three types of control to fly and you tail sweep while playing it.

No... for me, the best thing of the show was from Taira... World Grand Prix... Real Race Feeling. This is a motorbike game which has an over the shoulders view of the action. The next difference you notice is when you go around a corner... when the whole of the horizon tilts... just as in real life. A difficult technical test that has been accomplished with great skill... and it makes a real difference to the playability of the thing... plus the little things that blow us into your face in order to simulate the vast speed of your bike. I don't think!

It's not finished yet, but I expect it to do very well indeed when it's released later in the year.

Lastly... the two new money spinners from Sega and SNK. Line of Fire and Breakout'n seem to be finished now. Sega's effort is all solid and no action. SNK's is a cross between its hit Mechanized Attack and the shock horror graphics of Splatterhouse. Should do well... and we'll be taking an in-depth look at them next month.

Until then, give those dealers hell won't you. And don't pass both. Pippa or once... John Cook here you're faced by the prospect of finding any kind of consumer good it's best to look inward. Not the Buddhist inward or the inward that Samuel Beckett implied to Billie Whitehead when she was stumped in the middle of one of Beckett's rehearsals. Look inside. he told her. Look inside what? The fridge? the bread bin? The dustbin? Maybe the dustbin because he likes, or used to like, having those around.

CENTRAL 64

But for 'inwardly' you can put centrally, and you're almost always able to find whatever you want. A fridge? A bread bin? A see-kisen? A C64?

If you're living in a small farmhouse on the edge of a small Suffolk village or working the Helston Ferry lines then you'll know the meaning of isolation. You won't have a bevy of red-robed women awaiting until the early hours on a floozie stage on the village green. You won't be able to get hold of a TV or a computer by walking through your back door and nipping over the garden fence.

You might be lucky but if you want a hooker or you want a one-night stand or you want a C64 then you're going to go a distance or 3 to get what you want.

Sofia has the reputation for hooking but those in the know know that it's moving out, moving to desirable places like Ringo Cross. It makes good sense. Victoria Ringo Cross, Sutton where the commuters are and there are cheaper hotels. The dispersed areas.

At the computer end of things then Tottenham Court Road is the game for brand new (all kinds of brands) computers.

While the Amiga is the happening machine, the 32- and the C64 are going to have an extensive range of releases in the near future. But for new additions it's dead-as-the-dodo time. A cute button for driving the disk head but for the hardened gamer the C64's going to get less and less stuff as the years go.

Where as the C64 doesn't suffer from virus like all computers and all greedily searched after things, they've become symbols of tech and computability. A flower in an apple, on its own has the purity of independence especially when it's in the ground or on the tree growing in the ground.

Group them together treat them, and you've a marketable desirable and computable product.

Computers and Computers Software have become this type of product though. Illegal copying, hype, lying for licenses, reproduction and the presence of piratical magazines. It's all there in the great Computer Shopper Show for those who want to make money and those who think they want to buy the goods. When alternative is there? The games are there so you have to play them. The people are there, the programming is possible so give it a go.

Where the curbed speeding form of Gentle Post comes in is when somebody Limited Company X can see that a Blob Blob kind of guy will play that Blob Blob kind of game. And it is only guys that play Blob Blob games because the 1st company employed by somebody now called Limited Company Blob Blob has tapered that group.

The movement is continuous, it might even reach girls until it's thwarted by the next excessive trend the next bup, a jungle. Paying more money and more money your ending words will be markedly different from what you started with. You'll have been told about greediness and told a love, as if you believe them you'll buy an Amiga next because the 64's not up to it. Push the roller one more time, see the Blob Blob game disappear. When it pops back up again, your cassette might have changed a bit or two but the game'll be exactly the same. C64's about selling you the same thing, day in day out. Consumers triumph leaving the real losers to get lower selling the fat cats get fatter.

On The Tape.

The only real limitation of the map editor is your own imagination and you can make the map as hard or as easy as you wish. Below is a list of all the functions of the map editor. It is advisable to clear all map definitions before starting to design.

CELLRATOR

3 INTO 1 PLUS

The year is 2090. Uranium is running short, but is needed for fuel to power generators to produce oxygen.

The only place where this can be found is in the caves below the Earth's labyrinth of caves, one closely protected by alien life forms.

You are the chosen one, who has the task of collecting Uranium from each cave as you pass through. This can be done by firing phasers at them and transporting them on to your ship, Cellrator.

As you collect the Uranium it will be registered on your team scale. Devoid of the cave walls, the enemy have sensed them, routing them will severely damage your power shields.

No map has ever been produced revealing the way through the caves. The alien have invisible barriers which constantly change directions to confuse the intruder.

If you succeed in penetrating the caves you will find the enemy headquarters. This you must destroy.

Good luck with the mission (you will need it) and take care of your ship Cellrator.

A scrap of paper has been found from a previous mission on it is scribbled the note: "The Uranium capsules need to be shot at different distances from your ship. This also applies to the Gas clouds." end!!

The vast majority of computer programmers probably have a diverse range of graphic aids. These may include screen editors, character editors or sprite editors. The only problem is that none of them can carry out all the functions that the programmer requires. Obviously, the only way around this is to use a number of programs to produce one finished product.

For example, if you were writing a game you would use a character editor to produce user defined characters. You would then use these to produce the actual background for the game. A sprite editor would be used to produce the sprites. Wouldn't it be easier if it could be done with one program which encompassed all the functions you will ever need? Hence the birth of the 3 IN 1 EDITOR.

3 IN 1 consists of a sprite editor that has provision for multi colour and 4-bit sprites. Sprites can be animated, copied, pasted on top of each other etc. When the program there is also a combined character and background editor. What makes this part of the program so special is that you are not limited to designing just single screens but it is possible to define screens that take up to 32K of the computer's memory.

The editing screens act as a small window that can be moved over a much larger area. Until now most editing screens were designed as individual pictures and stuck one next to the other of a kind door.

The 3 IN 1 EDITOR has already aroused much interest in programming circles and many programmers are using it to help them design games. The complete editor program is on the tape so that it is available to anyone who is interested in graphics.

Using the Program

Once you have loaded the program and started it running (with SYS 515000) you will be presented with the editor's main menu which offers the following options:

- 1) SPRITE EDITOR,
- 2) CHARACTER EDITOR,
- 3) DATA COMMANDS
- 4) END
- 5) DATA REPORT
- 6) SAVE EDITOR
- 7) LOAD

Pressing the corresponding key will call up the specified function. Options 1 and 2 call up the sprite editor and the character/background editor respectively. These will be explained in their own sections later on.

Option 3 allows you to send the standard disk which combination of dots produce which colour. Simply press one to three to select the editing colour and key panel. drawdots with it.

Colour changing is also extremely easy. Press shift one to five and the corresponding colour will go through all 16 possibilities. Changing colour mode is also extremely easy. Choose the option required from the menu (F7). If you want to reverse the sprite simply press CONTROL AND R. Easy isn't it?

It is not really worth mentioning all of the available commands since they are all listed in Figure 2. However a few functions do need further explanation.

At the bottom right hand corner of the screen there are four sprites referred to as sprites zero to three. Note these are NOT the same as sprite numbers but are just used as reference numbers for the four of the bottom of the screen. Usually these four positions hold the same sprites as that which is being edited. It is possible to expand these images using the put down menu. To alter the way that the sprite looks simply select the desired option from the menu followed by the corresponding sprite number (00-03). Choosing POSITION in the menu followed by a number allows you to move that numbered sprite around the bottom of the screen. This means that you can position the four sprites next to each other or even overlap them. This may not seem all that useful, or far but it is possible to make each of these four sprites different. This means that you could define a large character of up to four sprites joining the sprites together at the bottom of the screen so that you can see what they look like. It is even possible to animate this section of the screen with the number option and the Q and W keys. Choosing NUMBER followed by 00 will cause each of the four sprites at the bottom of the screen to become the same as the one being edited. If on the other hand after you enter a number greater than 00 you can set up animations.

Animation is quite difficult to explain and is best figured out with practice. However I will do my best to explain how to set up and use the special animation function.

When you enter a number greater than 00 for the number of animations after choosing NUMBER the sprite at the bottom of the screen will change. If for example we have entered 01 and the current sprite was 00 sprite 0 would be the same as the actual sprite SAQ Sprite 01 will be the same as SA1 Sprite 02 will be the same as SA2 etc. If we now press the keys 'W' and 'Q' we can increment and decrement the sprite numbers at the bottom of the screen giving the appearance of animation. If we press 'W' Sprite 00 will become actual sprite SA1. Sprite 01 will become actual sprite SA2 etc. If we had entered 04 after a CONTROL N instruction then the sprites would be incremented by four every time you pressed the 'W' key. i.e. sprite 00 would become SA4. Sprite 01 would become SA5 etc.

I did say that this form of animation was complicated but if you try it then I'm sure that it will fall into place.

Just as there you have problems with the type of animation there is a simple form. This is the ANIMATE instruction. This instruction will change all the sprites on the screen including the large editing screen. In increments of one for a preset length. When you choose ANIMATE you will be prompted at the top of the screen for the first sprite in the sequence and the last, then the sprites will be displayed in order. Pressing 'F' and 'S' will speed up and slow down the speed of this animation.

The sprite that is in the editing window can be moved within the editing grid with the keys specified elsewhere in this article.

If WAP-ON is set when disappears off of one edge of the editing grid will appear at the opposite edge. If WAP-ON is set then anything moved off the grid is lost.

sprite. The pull down menu option CHAR-BANK is used to specify which character bank you want to look at. Should you want the normal Commodore characters then enter 0000 at the prompt.

COPY CHARS is used to position the desired character in the sprite grid. When the option is selected a large address will appear in the sprite editing grid. This can be moved within the grid using the cursor keys. Once you have the block where you want the character to appear press RETURN. You will then be prompted for the character that you want to appear in the sprite. By the using the character set of 0000 and you'll see what the default does. Use NUM/BCP to see the COPY CHARS options.

All change

If it is possible to change one multi colour to another with the SWAP COLOUR option on the pull down menu. When selected this now select the second colour in the same way. When RETURN is pressed the two colours on the screen will swap over. DO NOT use this option when dealing with text, use the reverse option CTRL-R instead.

Character Screen Editor

Some of these editors are present on the same screen. The top half of the character editor has the bottom a grid and a large window size of larger sizes.

Quite a lot of information is present on the screen and it is worth studying the commented letters in order to find where everything is.

Again it is worth looking at some of the command commands. In this article a summary of them all can be found in Figure 3.

As with the sprite editor characters can be edited in either multi colour or hi-res mode. Colours being chosen and changed as in the sprite editor.

control between either the character editor or the background editor. You can see which mode you are in by seeing which cursor is flashing.

The background also is defined with the WINDOW SIZE option and the window can be anything from two by two characters upwards. The maximum in either direction being 255. Obviously your screen size is limited by the amount of memory available. If there is not enough room for your window then you will have to enter new values. I have made up to 32K of memory available for the window though I'm sure that they will find that you very soon use the much the two numbers in the middle of the screen after the word DATA, show you where your window starts and finishes in memory.

One very important consideration for games programmers is where they are actually going to put this screen. The BASE ADDRESS option will prompt you for the base address of the background so that you can move it where you want. Do make sure that you don't overwrite any other programs in memory such as the editor.

You may think that it is a little limiting to put see a small section of your total graphics screen at one time. I have therefore included the 'W' command which will switch to a full screen display in which you can move around the background movements being controlled by the cursor keys only.

If it is possible to set up a border character which is displayed around the smaller editing window. I usually leave this blank though you may try different effects by putting funny borders around the screen. This does not apply to full screen mode.

A Furry sprite - getting graphics at your fingertips

Characters and Sprites

The option that may seem a little strange is the ability to turn characters into option presents you with the three multi colour at the top of the screen. Move the arrow to the colour you want to swap and press return. Use cursor left/right to move (arrow)

Once you have entered a character you can place it anywhere within a defined background in the background editor. The 'J' key is used to move

Painting a large area

When producing backgrounds it is quite usual for large areas of the background to be repeated elsewhere in the backdrop. A GULL option is available that will allow you to grab a rectangular area of the backdrop and copy it to another position of the screen.

To use this mode you should be in the background editing screen of the character editor. Move the cursor to where the top left of the block to be copied is and press the left arrow key (top right of the keyboard). Use the cursor key to move the bottom right of the block to be copied, and the rectangular area marked will be highlighted. Once the highlight covers the block area that you want to copy press the RETURN key. Now when you move around the backdrop you will drop with your copy of the block marked. You can place this wherever on the backdrop by pressing RUN/STOP to exit the mode.

Saving and Loading

The character editor is as possible to load any type of file into memory from the main menu. It is also possible to load any type of file from any type of the file format as well as wherever the I/O device is separate. In each instance you must change the location of the program.

Even though you can LOAD and type files into them with any kind of the program, they can only save each type of data from the correct editor. You must therefore be in the character editor in order to SAVE your work. Unfortunately, the save file in the background editor in order to save backgrounds.

Note

When you design a background, there are four things to keep in mind of the screen size that is defined, save a sprite, and a sprite editor. Characters will look better if the background is up to 255 characters.

That just about sums it up for the sprite editor. You may find that you are very busy to use with a few backgrounds that you will find making the situations that you are going to need.

THE FUNKY FISH

Greetings haddocks! I trust your docks are fully functional. Purple Fish Lord of Gore here. Actually my great entrance is not with you in that sense, but the comes of the Fish Lord will be with you soon. Thanks to far months outrage by your birthlings expect to see the assembled might of Gore appearing in your skins shortly. I compute that in exactly one year from now the bowls of heaven will descend upon the so-called Hermal of Hempstead, and totally exterminate the Henderson of HC infamy. Until that glorious day here is the latest news from bowls around the country.

The Bishop Brothers have started work upon Speedboat 2, although whether they will actually do any of the work this time (they didn't do any programming on Jargon II) remains to be seen. The sequel to the game of steel fish and high speed thuggery is due for release in September. Before then their current project, Cadaver, will be out in August.

Cadaver is a pretty darn name for a game, which is surprising since Microsoft rejected the title suggestion by the Bismapping Boys. They wanted to call it Sniffy. The marketing plugs for this could have been legion. Get a sniffy waggle your joystick.

Oscon Software is officially denying that it has its eye on the latest game from Taito. Last of the Fish follows on from Operation Wolf and Thunderbolt and features yet more 3-D machine gunning, but thankfully with some variety. When pressed (up against a wall) Phyllis Pam Griffiths giggled. Crash, I suppose it'll come up then we'll have to have a fight.

Purveyor of graphically splendid software, Reynolds is worried at the moment thanks to the collapse of CS. CS was an American distributor that handled only games, and was Reynolds' main US distributor. The company has crashed and the receiver been called in.

You would have thought that there were enough computer magazines to fill a truck with or the magazines, though the number may decrease shortly having counted the number of pages in certain 8-bit magazines recently. However tadpoles on the scene have confirmed that there is to be yet another magazine joining the fray this one under the cumbersome title of The Complete Beginner's Guide to Games on Home Computer.

There will be more words in the title than adverts in the glossy magazine which is expected to retail for around £3.95. Expect the name to be cut down to size when someone realises how silly it is.

A final maggot for you Gathies, the main programming 501 has resubmitted after months of silence. Apparently his computer broke down. For months?

Cloop! Until the great bowl in the sky has resolved another 30 times from there well fish lovers

...it's dynamite!
